

Math Make-up

(50 points possible)

You have received several progress reports, each one possessing the details of each and every assignment you failed to complete or that you never turned in. Of those points that you originally missed out on, you may make-up up to 50 points worth of incomplete assignments. No more.

Be sure that you are completing the correct assignment that you missed. You will not get credit for a previously completed assignment due to your failure to ensure you are indeed completing the correct assignment. Refer back to your Agenda book, as you should have each and every homework assignment from this school year written down inside it.